Welcome to UCI

On a brilliant day in 1964, President Lyndon B. Johnson stepped from a helicopter into an undeveloped Irvine Ranch meadow and dedicated the land that would be home to the University of California, Irvine. Irvine. The campus proved to be fertile ground for advances in medicine, technology, art, education, science and the study of the human condition. The upstart that was UCI became the youngest university to gain membership in the prestigious Association of American Universities.

Today, with 32,000 students, 1,175 faculty and nearly 16,000 staff (including UC Irvine Health), UCI is one of the most dynamic campuses in the UC system. It ranks among the top 10 public universities in the nation according to U. S. News & World Report, and with nearly 98,000 applicants for fall 2016, is increasingly a first-choice university for high academic achievers. When President Barack Obama spoke at the 2014 graduation ceremony, it was a celebration of UCI’s bright past and promise of a brilliant future.

Excellence in Academics and Research

The leaders and faculty who founded the campus laid the foundation for rigorous academics, progressive research and interdisciplinary teaching, encouraging creative ideas and independent thinking. Discoveries were made, businesses were born, and jobs were created. And the work continues. Three UCI researchers have won Nobel Prizes, and the campus has earned a well-deserved reputation for excellence in research, graduate programs and undergraduate education that focuses on making the world a better place to live.

A Prime Resource for the Community

UCI reaches beyond its classrooms and laboratories to address societal issues and support human development. At UC Irvine Medical Center in Orange, UC Irvine Douglas Hospital is a world-class facility housing the latest technologies that strengthen UCI’s ability to provide specialized medical and surgical treatments. A major cultural center, the Claire Trevor School of the Arts produces stellar dramatic, dance and musical programs. When entrepreneurial Anteaters come up with inventive business ideas, the campus accelerates their ability to achieve positive results by connecting them with business plan help and investors through the recently established Applied Innovation Institute.

Fueling Growth and Prosperity

UCI is a driving force behind Orange County’s thriving economy, while its research and teaching generate real-world impact that serves lives and communities. The university’s annual $5.5 billion economic effect on the region is fueled in part by hundreds of millions of dollars in capital construction projects.

We look to the future with a commitment to making a difference through continued eye-opening innovation, life-changing discoveries and a character-building culture that make UCI a center of excellence. Enthusiastically embracing the bold, the one-of-a-kind, the independent mind, UCI has established itself as a place for those who see things differently, who know differently, who have the ability to shine brighter.
